Duddy

Continued from Page 48

"I wanted to give you a fight," he said, giving his conqueror a hug. "I'm better than that."

He later told the Echo: "I didn't get a chance to get going. This is the place to shine and I didn't. I trained six and a half weeks. I was relaxed and felt good."

Team Duddy was ecstatic after picking up its first championship.

"With John, you don't know what to expect; whether it will be a first round KO or he'll take you the distance," said trainer Harry Keitt, who went 3-0 on the night with his charges.

"Brilliant!" raved McLoughlin who called the entire evening a "grand slam home run."

On Duddy's next fight, the promoter said they were looking at an early May date followed by a return to the Garden on June 10.

MOORE SPECTACULAR

James Moore gave his rendition of retired Puerto Rican idol Felix Trinidad's "creeping death" fighting style six impressive minutes against Jose Felix.

Moore gave a calm, methodical and calculating performance as he stalked Felix. He boxed sharply, jabbing and countering well while showing a good defense.

Felix, a 30-year-old from Savannah, Ga., was floored twice in the second round, the first time by a left to the ribs -- and then by a left-right combination to the body early in the third stanza. Referee Steve Smoger waved it off after 26 seconds.

"I trained for this fight for a long time, since January 2," said Moore, who upped his record to 5-0 (4 KOs).

His dad Jim, who flew in from Arklow to work his corner with Keitt, was impressed.

"Very good. It was near enough perfect performance," he said.

"He's definitely getting better," noted Keitt. "That guy (Felix) was a good fighter. A lot of people wouldn't fight him."

Now 28 and being fast-tracked to contender status, Moore is lined up for another bout next month and can't wait.

"I'm looking to fight once a month (but) I won't be fighting bums. I want to fight guys that will bring it to me," he said.

ROSE PLUCKED

James Clancy was an easy winner over Mitch Rose, a 269-pound heavyweight who came in looking like a blubbery Mr. T of "A-Team" fame.

The Boston-based Clancy, 32, won all four rounds to preserve his unbeaten record (6-0, 1 KO).

"He could punch," Clancy observed.

WEIGHTY ISSUE

Matt Macklin's New York debut against Chris Troupe fell through after the Atlanta native reportedly failed to make the contracted 157-pound weight limit.

"Obviously Matthew wanted to go through with the fight but my first priority is to look after my fighter and the weight difference on the night would have been ridiculous. It could easily have been over twenty pounds," trainer Billy Graham said in a statement.

"I'm gutted that the fight fell through," said Macklin, the Irish middleweight titlist. "I really wanted to make a big impression in front of the New York fans."
